Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Wednesday 27 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Rather cloudy and damp today. Less cold than on Tuesday.

Today:
Rather cloudy and damp today, with some patchy light rain and drizzle at times, especially first thing. Perhaps the occasional brighter interlude into the afternoon. Feeling less cold than on Tuesday. Turning cloudier from the west later in the day. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Tonight:
A band of rain, heavy at times, will move northeastwards across all parts during the evening and overnight. Winds freshening. Less cold than previous nights. Minimum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Thursday:
The band of rain, heavy at times, will continue to slowly move northeastwards during Thursday, gradually easing as it does so. Becoming drier later in the day. Feeling milder. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Rain gradually sinking back southwards on Friday. Turning colder, with widespread frost overnight. Dry, sunny and cold on Saturday and early Sunday, before cloud and rain arrives later.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.